Finally, I note the efforts of the Consultative Group to propose the best candidates for each position while paying due attention to gender balance and geographic representation at all stages of the process of shortlisting, interviews and recommendations, notwithstanding the limited diversity of applications received both in terms of number of female candidates and of different regions. Further efforts are required by all stakeholders involved to attract a sufficiently diverse pool of qualified candidates. I would therefore strongly encourage qualified candidates from all regions and backgrounds, especially women, to apply for forthcoming appointments.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the members of the Consultative Group for their very hard work, commitment and dedication, which has facilitated my efforts to identify an appropriate candidate for the vacancies, and commend them for the seriousness with which they carried out their task.

Please accept, Excellencies, the assurances of my highest consideration.
