For2 item: Participation of minority youth in public life

Ladies and Gentlemen;

The existence of minorities with different cultural trends, background and civilizations, prepares the basis for the cultural and social diversity of each country and it's considered as an inalienable part of its society. In this regard, the teaching of human rights emphasizes and enforces the observation of economic, social, cultural and political rights of these people. All this while minorities, in particular the young generation, are subject to abuse and violations of their rights in various forms. For example; minorities in the various countries are extremely deprived. They suffer discrimination according to the law of their country, and they are practically banned from wearing their traditional clothing in public and religious rituals, such small minority who cannot participate in politics in their own country, and enjoy their basic fundamental rights.

Therefore it is a must for all the intellectuals and those who have freedom and peace to others without prejudice try to make the following:

- 1- Contributing and discussing to eliminate discrimination and create favorable conditions for establishing peace, avoid violence and discrimination against these communities.
- 2- Establish Permanent Peace in All Countries Involved
- 3- Provide the necessary structures for a good and healthy environment such as education, employment and the pleasure of social rights.
- 4- Facilitating everyone's participation in the general affairs of each country
- 5- Establish an appropriate platform to practice their Religious beliefs.

In the hope of establishing peace, in the world, expansion of friendship, resent all, including children, women, young people, ethnic and religious minorities
