

1840s-1850s Gothic style
two-story Waddell slave quarters at 1415 South
Street, Lexington, Missouri.

This two story slave quarter and attached kitchen was the dependency behind John W. Waddell's brick Greek Revival home. Waddell was the grandson of William B. Waddell, a member of the Russell, Majors, & Waddell firm, the celebrated pioneers of a Western freight business and the founders of the Pony Express. By 1860, the Waddell family owned some 86 slaves in Lafayette County, Missouri.

Demolished by owner
Rebecca Browning, July 2013.