

Maskgero.

I greet and bless you in my Nubian ancestors tongue and invoke their languages and every other language indigenous to the Majesty that is mama Afrika. It is after all, the decade of indigenous languages, yet here we are with not one representation to 1 of Africa's many indigenous afrikan languages. I digress.

PanAfricanist giants who game before us were presenced. So I take a moment to presence every youth of African ancestry martyred at the tentacles of this oppressive genocidal system. I PRESENCE I INVOKE YOUR SPIRITS INTO THIS SPACE AS YOU SHIFT THE DEMOGRAPHICS OF OUR ANCESTRAL COUNCIL.

The reclamation of the narrative for anyone truly concerned with the human condition in general and that of people of African ancestry particularly must start with EMBODYING the following facts:

If it - whatever it may be in any context- is not leading to the liberation and advancement of all Africans, it is not African lead.

If it is not based on the traditional and ancestral African practices of community and continuity, it - whatever it may be - is not African based.

If it is not collectively uplifting all Africans involved and affected, it is not for the greater good and is only pedaling a divisive and racist agenda.

If it is marginalizing any bracket of the African ecosystem, it cannot and will not lead to anything but the continuation of colonial legacies.

Finally, any way you slice a cake that does not yield everyone who contributed to its making and baking equally, however decorated that cake might be, it will only leave a bitter taste and unsettled stomach that will sooner or later leave you with a mess to clean up.

I'm not here to kill the vibe. I'm here to kill our indifference to the world's indifference to our continued genocide as a people of African ancestry.

Till then #KeepEyesOnSudan
